He is the closest family to me.
When we see each other,
he always reminds me of my mother.
Oh, I could give anything in this world
to have him living with me.
Yes, just like it used to be.
We both have grown up so fast
missing how we used to laugh.
I know we are apart,
but not in my heart.