End Human Trafficking

The Texas Department of Family and Protective Services (DFPS) invites faith and secular communities to stand with us during National Human Trafficking Awareness month - January 2024. DFPS has made the fight against human trafficking a priority, and strives to improve awareness, services, and prevention efforts to eradicate trafficking in Texas.

The Participation Guide for Human Trafficking Prevention Month provides ideas that anyone can do - individuals, groups, organizations, businesses, and communities of faith. This guide provides a variety of activities hosted by DFPS, and highlights efforts and information from the Governor's Office and the Office of Attorney General, as well as, the Blue Campaign. This Guide by no means captures all of the anti-trafficking work and January activities that are happening in the great State of Texas. Please feel free to research and participate in your local community's events.

WHAT IS HUMAN TRAFFICKING?

Human trafficking is modern-day slavery and involves the use of force, fraud, or coercion to obtain labor or commercial sex. Every year, millions of men, women, and children are trafficked in countries around the world. This serious crime is not just a problem in other countries – it is also happening in the United States in urban, suburban, and rural areas.

Human trafficking is a hidden crime as victims rarely come forward to seek help because of language barriers, fear of the traffickers, and/or fear of law enforcement. The need to increase public understanding and awareness about the prevalence of human trafficking is another factor contributing to its hidden nature.

There are different types of human trafficking:

- Sex Trafficking
Victims of sex trafficking are manipulated or forced to engage in sex acts for someone else's commercial gain. Sex trafficking is not prostitution. Anyone under the age of 18 engaging in commercial sex is considered to be a victim of human trafficking. No exceptions.
- Forced Labor
Victims of forced labor are compelled to work for little or no pay, often manufacturing or harvesting the products we use and consume every day.
- Domestic Servitude
Victims of domestic servitude are forced to work in isolation and are hidden in plain sight as nannies, housekeepers, or other domestic help.

What is the Difference Between Sexual Assault and Sex Trafficking?

- Sexual assault is any type of sexual contact or behavior that occurs without the consent of the recipient. It includes sexual acts against people who are unable to consent either due to age or lack of capacity.
- Sex trafficking means recruiting, harboring, transporting, patronizing, soliciting, obtaining, or providing a person to engage in a sex act in exchange for money or something of value. A victim of sex trafficking may also be a victim of sexual assault.

Five Ways Faith-Based Organizations Can Help in the Fight against Human Trafficking

1. Empowerment through Education

Learn and share the facts about how labor and sex trafficking effect your community. You can find educational resources at the following websites:

- Office on Trafficking in Persons, An Office of the Administration of Children and Families
<https://www.acf.hhs.gov/otip>
- National Human Trafficking Hotline
<https://humantraffickinghotline.org/>
- National Center for Missing and Exploited Children
<http://www.missingkids.com/home>
- Department of Homeland Security
<https://www.dhs.gov/blue-campaign>
- Shared Hope International
<https://sharedhope.org/>

2. Identify and Report

If you believe you have information about a potential trafficking situation call the National Human Trafficking Hotline at 1-888-373-7888. Hotline advocates are available 24/7. All reports are confidential and you may remain anonymous. Promote the National Hotline by posting the hotline number and include it in community resource lists.

- Call - 1-888-373-7888
- Text - HELP to BEFREE (233733)
- Email - help@humantraffickinghotline.org

3. Sponsor an Awareness event

Increase awareness by sponsoring opportunities to educate your faith community on how to identify, respond to, and prevent trafficking by hosting experts from the field (including survivors), sharing materials, or discussing films and documentaries about sex and labor trafficking.

- Be the One
<https://vimeo.com/244718411>
- Look Beneath the Surface to End Human Trafficking
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=l76cqmHI_k0

4. Partner with local anti-trafficking coalition or task force

Texas has multi-disciplinary task forces or coalitions that need faith-based and community organizations to provide their particular expertise to strengthen efforts to combat local trafficking. For information on local groups: Email - help@humantraffickinghotline.org or humantrafficking@dfps.texas.gov

5. Educate your Congregation

Shared Hope International offers resources for congregations to learn how to protect the youth in their church, and to equip them with tools in protecting their community. Faith Community Resources (Faith in Action Kit, Slaying the Giant). <https://sharedhope.org/store>

HOW YOU CAN BE THE ONE

1. Pay attention to the people in your community, your surroundings, and report red flag behaviors.
2. Don't wait to call. Make your report timely. Those moments matter.
3. Don't approach traffickers yourself. That can place you, the victim and any future prosecution in danger.
4. If the conduct you observe is an emergency, call 911 and tell them you believe that you have observed human trafficking. Don't worry about being wrong. Your call may be the one that saves a life.
5. If it is not an emergency or you need to remain anonymous, call the National Human Trafficking Hotline at 1-888-3737-888.
6. Provide “actionable information”:
 - Descriptions of cars: make, model, color, license plate
 - Descriptions of people: height, weight, hair color, age, eye color
 - Specific times, dates and locations: when and where you saw the conduct
 - Take a picture if you can safely do so.

THOSE DETAILS MAKE THE DIFFERENCE!

FAMILIAL TRAFFICKING WARNING SIGNS

Educators • Medical Professionals • Community Members

What we need to know:

- Trafficking usually begins with a family member. Traffickers can be a parent, grandparents, cousin, aunt, uncle, etc.
- Many commercial sexually exploited children in the United States have been sexually abused in a family situation
- Males are just as likely as females to be trafficked by their family
- Most kids who are sex trafficked don't consider themselves victims, many of them have been conditioned to normalize their situation
- Although 14-16 is a common age for victims to be trafficked, with familial victims typically the abuse starts at a much younger age
- Often emotional, psychological, physical, and relational isolation is a hallmark factor to familial trafficking
- Children come from many backgrounds: there is no standard socioeconomic situation, race, gender, creed or religious indicator to predict who will be trafficked over another child in a family situation

What we need to look for:

- Poor mental health, abnormal behaviors, and lack of control
- May be fearful, anxious, depressed, submissive, tense, or nervous/paranoid
- Tries to please adults or get inappropriate attention from them
- Tries to act older than peers or mental age
- Inconsistent behavior, frequent mood swings
- Behaviors that appear to be sexually promiscuous
- May have vague answers; have been taught to hide secrets
- May have non-evident injuries that affect physical activity
- Isolated and does not socialize normally with peers; poor communication skills
- Appears tired and unable to keep up in studies
- Is not allowed or able to speak for themselves (a third party may insist on being present and/or translating during school meetings, medical appointments, church, etc.)
- Constant cover up for abuser, self-shaming/blaming
- Lack of understanding and education about bodily functions, rape, incest, sexual abuse
- May have poor hygiene, be unaware of body odor or common practices

TRAUMA-INFORMED RESPONSES

Trauma may be the result of a single event (an intense one-time event, where there is serious threat of harm or death) or a series of events or situations that are long term (witnessing or experiencing neglect, abuse, or other forms of violence).

As a leader in a house of worship, it is possible that your congregants or community members could come to you or refer someone to discuss traumatic experiences which could include human trafficking. You may be in a position to support them in seeking the necessary help they need to recover from their experiences. It is also important that you use trauma-informed responses during your own interactions. Below is information about trauma-informed approaches when interacting with victims and recommendations on how to build a local network of support services for referrals.

A trauma-informed response begins with understanding the physical, social, and emotional impact of trauma on the individual.

TRAUMA-INFORMED PRINCIPLES THAT CAN BE IMPLEMENTED IN HOUSES OF WORSHIP INCLUDE:

Safety – Create a trusted space and welcoming environment. In a house of worship or religious facility, the physical and psychological safety is important to the health and well-being of those adversely affected. The physical setting must be private and safe, and interactions should promote a sense of safety and set a positive tone with those seeking help.

Trustworthiness and Transparency – Build trusted and transparent relationships without judgement. This provides meaningful opportunities for physical and emotional healing.

Peer Support – Seek other individuals who can serve as key partners in recovery from traumatic events.

Empowerment, Voice, and Choice – Allow individual strengths to be recognized, built upon, and validated while developing new skills as needed.

Cultural, Historical, and Gender Issues – Key considerations should be made for those experiencing historical and cultural trauma and gender-based violence. Be responsive to the racial, ethnic, gender, and cultural needs of individuals served.

HUMAN TRAFFICKING AND TRAUMA

Some of the most significant injuries suffered by human trafficking victims are often the least visible. Traffickers can use a victim’s pre-existing relationships, immigration status, built-in trust, alcohol or drug use, or engagement in criminal activity to create vulnerabilities. These vulnerabilities and the trauma associated with the experience coupled with feelings of guilt, self-blame, embarrassment, fear, and/or shame may have long-lasting psychological wounds. These emotions can have a significant impact on the ability to assist victims in their own personal healing process. Emotional distress may cause victims to return back to their trafficker numerous times while receiving services or assistance in their recovery.

The majority of trafficking situations are the culmination of many traumatic experiences, most of which are untreated. Trauma affects how victims see themselves ("I am helpless," "worthless"), their worldview ("the world is dangerous," "no one can protect me"), and relationships ("I cannot trust anyone"). A trauma-informed approach is mindful of how to create a situation in which the victim is safe, makes his or her own choices, and feels understood.

Key components of trauma-informed approaches:

- Realize (acknowledge) how trauma affects people
- Recognize the signs of trauma (fear, sadness, anger, mistrust, anxiety, self-harm, etc.)
- Respond by changing or improving tone, delivery, and language ("What’s wrong?" becomes "What happened?")
- Resist re-traumatization by addressing trauma and toxic stress in the lives of both family/friends and people served

Professional training on trauma & trauma-informed approaches is essential and strongly encouraged.

VICTIM SERVICES

Knowing the services within your community before a victim comes forward can prepare you to offer immediate assistance and help reduce re-traumatization for the victim. Collaborate with organizations and agencies ahead of time to be aware of the services offered within your community. Some of the services that victims of trafficking may need include:

Emergency Services

- Crisis Intervention and Counseling
- Emergency Shelter and Referrals
- Urgent Medical Care
- Safety Planning
- Food and Clothing

Social Services

- Case Management
- Interpretation
- Housing
- Job Training and Education
- Court Accompaniment
- Employment Assistance
- Transportation
- Healthcare

Legal Services

- Immigration Status
- Criminal Case Services
- Civil Case Services
- Witness Protection
- Family Court Services
- Legal Representation
- Vacate Convictions

For more information about the services available to victims of human trafficking, including comprehensive service referrals in the U.S., visit the National Human Trafficking Referral Directory.
