INTRODUCTION

PEI was established by Senate Bill 1574 in 1999 to consolidate child abuse and neglect prevention, juvenile delinquency prevention and early intervention programs within the jurisdiction of a single state agency. It has grown to include the Office of Child Safety and Texas Home Visiting.

PEI uses a public health framework to prevent child maltreatment and fatalities and support positive child, family and community outcomes. A public health framework uses data and stakeholder feedback to assess the effectiveness of programs and adjusts program delivery accordingly.

PEI aims to improve the well-being of all Texans by acting upon a broad range of factors and conditions that influence child well-being. Preventing child maltreatment and other negative outcomes includes addressing the underlying issues, including poverty, family instability, poor health, substance abuse and mental illness.

PEI also aims to become a statewide hub for communication, knowledge sharing and assistance for stakeholders engaged in strengthening children and families in their communities.

PEI organizes all of its communication efforts toward three major goals: promoting public awareness; engaging with contracted services and coalitions; and positioning PEI as a resource hub.

By providing access to health, wellness and family-strengthening programs, PEI will achieve a wide array of positive outcomes that benefit not only those served, but local communities and Texas as a whole.

CBFS

COMMUNITY BASED FAMILY SERVICES

This program serves families that CPS investigates and either does not confirm abuse or neglect or does confirm an allegation but the situation is low risk. Services include home visitation, case management and parent education.

Start date	FY 2008
Counties served	Bexar, Brown, Callahan, Coleman, Comanche, Eastland, Guadalupe, McCulloch, Mills, Runnels, San Saba
Populations served	Children 0-17
Goals	Percentage of CBFS children who remain safe, based on the percentage of adult caregivers who do not abuse or neglect their children while or after receiving services.
Methodology	CBFS contractors: provide an initial home visit to assess families' needs and create a service plan; provide case management to facilitate and ensure the provision of family support services; and offer an evidence-based parent education program to enhance the parents' ability to provide a safe and stable home environment.
Example of innovation	Catholic Charities of San Antonio utilizes hearing screens when serving children under 5 years old in order to rule out hearing loss as a factor in behavioral difficulties.

I work with a client who brought up, during one of our visits, that she was in an abusive relationship and that her boyfriend would strangle her when he became upset. Client's family expressed concerns about the safety of client and the baby to me. I was able to facilitate a safety plan for my client to leave her abusive relationship when she was ready.

CYD

COMMUNITY YOUTH DEVELOPMENT

CYD provide services in targeted ZIP codes to promote protective factors and prevent negative outcomes such as juvenile delinquency by funding local programs that reduce referrals to juvenile probation and increase youth protective factors associated with juvenile delinquency.

Start date	1995
Counties served	Bexar, Cameron, Dallas, El Paso, Galveston, Harris, Hidalgo, Lubbock, McLennan, Nueces, Potter, Tarrant, Travis
Populations served	Youth ages 6-17 who live in or attend school in one of the targeted ZIP codes; Youth that attend a middle or high school that has at least 30% enrollment of students that live within a target ZIP code.
Goals	Percentage of youth not referred to juvenile probation
Methodology	CYD offers nine program services: Youth-based curriculum class/activity; Family-based curriculum class activity; Family focused service; Recreational services; Academic support services; Life skills classes; Mentoring; Youth leadership development; and Youth advisory committee business.
Example of innovation	The Boys and Girls Clubs of Greater Fort Worth provides Youth and Music programs for teens. The program teaches youth how to read and write music, play instruments, and use sound/computer equipment.

“A 10-year old from Carver Elementary School and her friends were concerned about children who have anxiety before the STAAR testing so they created a hotline for kids to call, get advice or just talk. They worked the hotline every day during the week before the test from 4-7 p.m. They also created a public service announcement about anxiety. The ‘Kid Counselors’ gave information and resources to the callers.”

Fatherhood EFFECT

FATHERHOOD ORIENTED PROGRAMS

Fatherhood EFFECT I and II are programs that provide training and resources to fathers to reduce incidents of child abuse and neglect. The programs include evidence-based parenting classes for fathers and father figures with children ages birth to 18. In addition to the curriculum, contractors provide additional assistance such as basic needs support, childcare, transportation and community resource referrals.

SOURCE: PEI CONTRACTS DATA

Start date	EFFECT I: June 2013 EFFECT II: June 2015
Counties served	Cameron, Denton, El Paso, Fort Bend, Tarrant, Taylor
Populations served	Fathers with children ages birth to 18
Measured outcomes	Children staying safe Client feedback surveys Peer reviews Internal/external steering committees Enrollment numbers
Methodology	The parenting classes run weekly, in English and Spanish, for several weeks.
Example of innovation	Contractors give journals to each client as a way to try to retain them in the service. The clients are encouraged to use them to make notes between classes and to reflect on thoughts and feelings that arise.

The Fatherhood EFFECT Program in Fort Worth is working in partnership with the school district's Family Resource Centers to reach at-risk families. Through this new relationship, several fathers have enrolled in Nurturing Fathers classes and Mentor/Navigator program. All of the children continue to be active in school. Five fathers have secured improved employment situations since starting service to help them become self-sufficient.

HEAL

HOME VISITING, EDUCATION AND LEADERSHIP

CBCAP programs such as HEAL seek to increase community awareness of existing prevention services, strengthen community and parental involvement in child abuse prevention efforts, and encourage families to engage in services that are already available.

Start date	2014
Counties served	Concho, Harris, Runnels, Tarrant, Tom Green
Populations served	Adults expecting a child or with at least one child age 0-17 years
Goals	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• An absolute increase in the score for a minimum of one protective factor is reported by unduplicated families served.• Children remain safe.• Primary caregivers are satisfied with the Contractor's HEAL program services received.
Methodology	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Evidence-based home visiting: Parents As Teachers, Triple P, Family Connections, Safe Care• Ancillary services that are wrap around services for family well-being• Parent leadership (meaningful parental involvement) in program planning, implementation and evaluation• Public awareness on child abuse and neglect
Example of innovation	Children's Advocacy Center of Tom Green County worked with a media company that created television commercials using CAC families that had received their services. They took a whole new approach to recruiting not only families to participate but also volunteers.

“A family came to the HEAL program with the adolescent son exhibiting anger toward his mother, defiance toward both parents and signs of depression. The HEAL clinician worked with the family, primarily the mother, [to learn appropriate roles]. The mother was empowered to be an authority in the home, while allowing her son independence. The son seemed to flourish with the negative interactions in the home gone.”

HELP & HOPE

HELP FOR PARENTS, HOPE FOR KIDS

The Help for Parents, Hope for Kids public awareness campaign serves as a universal strategy to promote healthy parenting, help parents manage the stress that comes with parenting, support communities in serving families, normalize seeking help, and connect those in need of help with local and state resources. Since the inception of www.helpandhope.org in 2012, 1,119,177 people have visited the website 1,488,673 times and viewed 2,350,786 pages of content.

Start date	2010
Populations served	Males and females ages 12-44 years All races and ethnicities Parents and caregivers Youth and family service providers All Texas residents
Goals	The overarching goal is to encourage all parents and caregivers to develop positive parenting skills and increase protective factors to lower the risk of abuse and neglect across Texas.
Methodology	www.helpandhope.org Social media content Paid TV and mobile advertisement Live and animated videos Partnerships
Animated videos	Temper Tantrums Teens Get Ready for Baby Kids Who Won't Mind Potty Training Bedtime Struggles Water Safety
Example of innovation	In FY 2017, PEI will grow the Help and Hope campaign by continuing a comprehensive outreach campaign, developing new content relevant to fathers, creating new print materials, piloting a new two-part strategy in partnership with PBS, and ramping up social media efforts.

HIP

HELPING THROUGH INTERVENTION AND PREVENTION

A free, voluntary program, Helping through Intervention and Prevention (HIP) provides targeted families with an extensive family assessment, home visiting that includes parent education, and basic needs support.

Start date	2014
Counties served	Andrews, Atacosa, Austin, Bandera, Bexar, Blanco, Brazoria, Burnet, Caldwell, Chambers, Collin, Colorado, Comal, Cooke, Crane, Dallas, Dawson, Denton, Ector, Ellis, Erath, Fannin, Fort Bend, Galveston, Gaines, Grayson, Gregg, Guadalupe, Harris, Harrison, Hays, Henderson, Hood, Hopkins, Howard, Hunt, Johnson, Kaufman, Liberty, Lubbock, Martin, Matagorda, Medina, Midland, Mitchell, Montgomery, Navarro, Parker, Palo Pinto, Pecos, Reeves, Rockwall, Runnels, Somevell, Smith, Tarrant, Taylor, Tom Green, Travis, Upton, Ward, Walker, Waller, Williamson, Wilson, Winkler, Wise, Van Zandt
Populations served	<ul style="list-style-type: none">Families with a new child and a prior history of a confirmed child maltreatment fatality or termination of parental rightsFormer and current foster youth who are expecting and/or are new parents
Goals	<ul style="list-style-type: none">Children remain safeAn absolute increase in the score for a minimum of one protective factor
Methodology	Home-based assessments A home visiting program that provides evidence-based parent education Basic needs support up to $200
Example of innovation	ACS plans an annual back to school event providing backpacks and school supplies to over 400 children every August. In addition to this event, PEI funding has allowed ACS to attend statewide trainings that have not only resulted in higher quality services for families but have allowed ACS to network statewide with other stakeholders in child abuse prevention. HIP services are provided by staff who are bilingual in Spanish and English which helps significantly in reducing barriers for parent engagement.

“When I met with my first client under the HIP program, she reported that she was losing hope. She was having consistent thoughts of giving up and going back to drug use and to a boyfriend that was severely physically abusive. By the end of her training, the client was living independently and working full time. She obtained insurance for herself and her baby, purchased a vehicle and was successful in all areas of the Nurturing Parenting Program.”

A mother entered the program at 16 years old. She was pregnant and unsure how she would be able to stay in school. Once the baby was born, the mother moved in with the father in a small town outside of Austin. Once in the small town, she became isolated due to limited transportation and resources. She was also not able to work or continue school. The father became verbally abusive to the mother. The Parent Educator assisted the mother to find housing in Austin, after which the mother was able to find a job and finish high school. The Parent Educator helped the mother find child care and obtain counseling to learn about healthy relationships.

MFVPP

MILITARY FAMILIES AND VETERANS PILOT PREVENTION PROGRAM

PEI launched new efforts to support military families and veterans in Bell, Bexar and El Paso counties. These counties are home to Fort Hood, Fort Sam Houston, Lackland Air Force Base, Randolph Air Force Base, and Fort Bliss.

Start date	84th Legislative Session (2015-16)
Counties served	Bell, Bexar and El Paso
Populations served	Military families and veterans who have committed, have experienced or who are at a high risk of family violence and/or abuse and neglect
Goals	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Prevent child abuse and neglect in military communities;• Help military and veteran parents have more positive parental involvement in their children's lives;• Improve the ability of these parents to give their children emotional, physical, and financial support;• Build community coalitions focused on preventing child abuse and neglect.
Measured outcomes	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• An absolute increase in the score of a minimum of one protective factor is reported by unduplicated families served• Children remain safe
Example of innovation	The funding of this grant also supports a Military Navigator position, which works to ensure that families receive proper wrap-around support while also determining eligibility for the MFVPP programs. Contractors are finding out which vital community services are needed, how families are approaching access to services, and the best opportunities for engagement with military families.

“Tammy* was like a breath of fresh air. She helped breathe life back into me. She helped me see the strength I had to get up and change my life. She taught me how to advocate for myself when it comes to the military health care system. As soon as I started doing that I finally started seeing positive steps taken in my treatment. ... I hope you will continue this program and even consider expanding it to other places. We military families need this.”

Room to Breathe

SAFE SLEEP PUBLIC AWARENESS CAMPAIGN

The Room to Breathe campaign promotes American Academy of Pediatrics guidelines for safe sleep for infants. AAP recommends babies sleep on their backs on a snug crib mattress with no toys or blankets in the same room as their parents. Data shows 339,404 people have visited the campaign website 392,388 times and viewed 830,207 pages of content since it went live in 2010.

Start date	FY 2010
Populations served	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Families and caregivers• Health care professionals• Influencers• Child safety advocates
Goals	Reduce the number of infant sleeping deaths; raise awareness about safe sleep practices
Methodology	The campaign includes: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• the website, babyroomtobreathe.org• paid mobile, online and TV advertising• print materials• targeted outreach
Recent news	Between September 2016 and March 2017, 70 Texas children died while sleeping with an adult or older child.

Safe Babies Evaluation

The Safe Babies projects evaluate hospital and clinic-based interventions that are designed to prevent maltreatment, especially abusive head trauma, in the first year after birth. The collective purpose of the Safe Babies projects is to develop a strong evidence base that leads to wide-scale implementation of education that supports positive parenting and provides tools to help parents cope with the difficult aspects of caring for an infant.

Population
PURPLE

The first project is a population-level evaluation of abusive head trauma education that is already being implemented in hospitals. This project will investigate rates of physical abuse among infants born at hospital using this education before and after the hospital implemented the program.

Paternal
PURPLE

The second project is focused on evaluating the effectiveness of providing in-hospital education to the father or male caregiver at the birth of the baby. This education will focus on abusive head trauma reduction, post-partum mental health awareness for him and mom, infant safety, and the important role a male caregiver has in the infant's life.

PURPLE Plus

The third project is being conducted in collaboration with Baylor College of Medicine. This project is designed to evaluate whether prevention education focused on maternal mental health, abusive head trauma reduction, life stress reduction, and positive coping strategies with difficult infant behavior can provide complimentary messaging that builds parents' knowledge and support positive parental behavior.

Fatherhood App

The fourth project is development of a mobile application designed for fathers. Timely information will be delivered based on the stage of pregnancy or infant development and will study whether this platform is an appropriate population-level prevention education approach for men.

LEGISLATURE SUMMARY

Start date	1983
Counties served	All counties
Populations served	Families with youth through 18 years old who are dealing with: conflict at home, school attendance or behavior issues, delinquency, or have a youth who has run away from home
Goals	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Children remain safe from abuse and neglect • Children not referred to juvenile justice • Better outcomes after 90 days
Methodology	Counseling sessions are offered by office appointment, at the youth's school, home visits or in the community. Skills classes are often held at the provider's office or a location within a community agency such as a school, library or non-profit organization.
Example of innovation	GSMYC hosts YouthFest every April. It is an opportunity for local youth to showcase their talents, and for GSMYC to educate the public about STAR services.

“Thanks to STAR services my two sons were able to learn coping skills and decrease their stress and anxiety due to family crisis. The worker met with each teen separately and she also worked with us as a family. The activities that were used help my sons to focus on the present and on things that they are able to manage. They used these skills to gain confidence in school and improve their behavior. They also learned skills for goal setting and have a positive outlook now.”

Big Brother Thomas* has made an effort to expose Little Brother Mark to a variety of new outings and activities throughout their match to help encourage Antonio to try new things and discover his interests. According to his mother, Mark has a tendency to be shy around others but Thomas has been able to help bring him out of his shell. Mark's mother says she can see how positive his influence has been. Mark says his match is great and he would not change anything about it.

Start date	FY 2008
Counties served	All counties
Populations served	Children ages 6-18
Goals	Reduce negative outcomes for children and youth by increasing protective factors for youth
Methodology	Services offered through SYSN providers include community and school-based mentoring, youth leadership development and youth skills. Providers deliver evidence-based programs that proactively increase protective factors in youth including involvement with positive peer groups, involvement with school and community and presence of caring adults other than parents in the youth's life.
Example of innovation	Big Brothers Big Sisters demonstrates innovation and creativity in the structure of its service delivery model. In the spirit of innovation the organization is focused on making systems and processes simple, fast, easy and convenient for all constituents.

TFTS

TEXAS FAMILIES TOGETHER AND SAFE

TFTS funds community-based programs that have been shown to relieve stress and promote better parenting skills and behaviors to help families become self-sufficient and nurture their children.

Start date	1995
Counties served	Bexar, Brazos, Brown, Burleson, Callahan, Cameron, Coleman, Comanche, Eastland, Grimes, Hidalgo, Kerr, Leon, Madison, McCulloch, Mills, Nueces, Robertson, Runnels, San Saba, Tarrant
Populations served	In addition to possessing at least one risk factor for child maltreatment, a family must have (1) at least one primary caregiver and (2) either a child 0-17 or are expecting a child.
Goals	Make family support services more available; Make community-based family support services more efficient and effective; Help children stay in their own homes; Help local programs, government agencies, and families work together.
Methodology	Provide one of five evidence-based parent education programs; Promote child abuse awareness through prevention awareness activities; Implement a community collaboration committee to integrate the TFTS program into its community and reduce the barriers faced by client in securing services.

“One parent who completed the program mentioned that her child used to address her by her name and with no respect. She completed the Parenting Wisely Young Child Class and spoke about how she has used the lessons to learn communication skills. She also informed that they communicate with each other now and she shows interests in her son’s life. Client also mentioned the classes helped by learning to control her temper. Her son addresses her as ‘mom’ now.”

“When I found out I was expecting I was so afraid. I had an incredible revelation that I would now be responsible for another life. The hospital referred me to PEI. As a result of the home visiting program, I felt more than ready to give birth and to begin raising my child. I even shared all of the information with my husband. It enabled us to break the bands of tradition that were unhealthy and embrace psychological truths of child development.”
